General Information
U.S. Army, Navy, and Air Force sponsored
Louisiana Junior Science & Humanities Symposium

Participation Costs

Students’ participation (i.e. travel, hotel, and meals) costs for symposium attendance are sponsored by the U. S. Army, Navy, and Air Force. There is no registration fee for persons selected to participate in the program who submit a paper for presentation.

A maximum of $50 in cash or traveler’s check is suggested for students’ personal choices for additional meals, souvenirs, etc.

Participation and Lodging

Invited participants will be housed at The Cook Hotel on the LSU Campus. Presenters will room with other presenters and all room assignments will be made by our office. Participants will share a room with no more than four students of the same gender. Sponsors will share a room with one other sponsor of the same gender. Whenever possible, students will be housed with students from the same school.

Breakfast at the hotel on Friday and Saturday mornings is included as well as lunch and dinner on Friday. Commuter registrations will include lunch and dinner on Friday evening.

All student presenters and observers must have a chaperone and indicate at the time of registration if housing is needed. La-JSHS is not responsible for housing costs for those who are not listed as a student observer, adult chaperone or teacher.

Program Attire

The program dress is comfortable and casual. For the paper sessions, attendees typically dress more professionally. For all other symposium activities, you’re welcome to wear slacks, jeans, shorts, tennis shoes – whatever makes you feel comfortable and eager to learn and participate. (Participants should plan to wear tennis shoes, not sandals, or other comfortable walking shoes for the tours.)
